Billions of GMO Mosquitoes Set to Be Released in California, Florida

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency approved the world's largest release of genetically engineered mosquitoes, despite warnings by public health experts.

In defiance of science and public health concerns, Monday the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) approved the mass release of billions of experimental genetically engineered (GE) mosquitoes into the U.S.' most populous and agriculturally significant states.

The British biotechnology company Oxitec was granted an experimental use permit for the release of a genetically engineered version of the species Aedes aegypti across Fresno, Tulare, San Bernadino and Stanislaus Counties in California and in Monroe County in Florida.

This will be the biggest release of GE insects in the world.

EPA's approval came despite growing concerns raised by scientists, public health experts and environmental groups about potential impacts of the experimental releases on public health, the environment and endangered species.

No publicly available data supports Oxitec's claims that GE mosquitoes will reduce incidence of mosquito-borne diseases.

An independent peer-reviewed study from Yale University scientists revealed that over two years of continual releases of the GE mosquitoes at a test site in Brazil failed to reduce populations of Aedes aegypti.

The Yale study also found that the GE mosquitoes bred with local Aedes aegypti, resulting in hybrid mosquitoes in the wild that may be more aggressive, more difficult to eradicate and may increase the spread of mosquito-borne disease.

"Scientists have found genetic material from GE mosquitoes in wild populations at significant levels, which means GE mosquitoes are not sterile. GE mosquitoes could result in far more health and environmental problems than they would solve," said Dana Perls, food and technology program manager at Friends of the Earth, and a California resident.

BUY TODAY: Robert F. Kennedy, Jr.'s New Book — 'The Real Anthony Fauci'

"EPA needs to do a real review of potential risks and stop ignoring widespread opposition in the communities where releases will happen."

The experimental release will purportedly investigate whether the GE mosquito can reduce the population of Aedes aegypti mosquitoes — one species that can carry yellow fever, dengue, chikungunya and Zika.

However, California does not have any cases of these diseases, as reported by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. In addition, the Aedes aegypti mosquito is not prevalent in California.

"This experiment is unnecessary and even dangerous, as there are no locally acquired cases of dengue, yellow fever, chikungunya or Zika in California," said Jaydee Hanson, policy director for the International Center for Technology Assessment and Center for Food Safety.

"Releasing billions of GE mosquitoes makes it likely that female GE mosquitoes will get out and create hybrid mosquitoes that are more virulent and aggressive. Other public health strategies, including the use of Wolbachia infected mosquitoes, could better control the Aedes aegypti in California and Florida."

The EPA did not publicly release any data from Oxitec field trials in Florida or Brazil and key information about health effects, including allergenicity and toxicity, was redacted from the company's application for a permit.

EPA did not require key scientific assessments, including an endangered species assessment, public health impact analysis or caged trials ahead of any environmental release. The EPA declined to convene a Scientific Advisory Panel as it does for other new pesticides.

"Once released into the environment, genetically engineered mosquitoes cannot be recalled," said Dr. Robert Gould, president of San Francisco Bay Physicians for Social Responsibility and California resident. "Rather than forge ahead with an unregulated open-air genetic experiment, we need precautionary action, transparent data and appropriate risk assessments."

Despite strong public opposition, in April 2021, Oxitec and the Florida Keys Mosquito Control Board began the release of half a billion genetically engineered mosquitoes into Monroe County, Florida.

Neither the mosquito control board nor Oxitec informed community residents about the locations of release until three days beforehand, and there was no informed consent by affected community members prior to release.

Following the EPA's approval, California's Department of Pesticide Regulation and local mosquito abatement districts will also decide whether to approve the permit for release.

If approved, billions of GE mosquitoes will be released over a 2-year period in 4 counties in California, beginning in 2022, and the current GE mosquito release in Monroe County, Florida, will be extended for another 2 years.

Damn right he is and Fauci is a long time friend and both are Eugenicists. They have a blood lust to kill every one of us who are not millionaires, they say we use up their resources and must be depopulated.

I feel like there are things in the ecosystem that have been off kilter because one species is destroyed for instance birds that eat mosquitoes or some other species that eats their larvae. This sets off a chain reaction in which our decision makers can only come up with chemical and poison solutions rather than look at what has caused this prevalence of mosquitoes in the first place is that its predator is gone. In my yard, honestly, I live in a desert climate and I no longer use any pesticides, I noticed that some of the insect species started to come back, when this happens the birds come back, this is how this works but these geniuses do not get it. I believe that some things will come back if we stop poisoning everything.

People like Bill Gates appear to be very difficult to get to. It's mentioned online even Bill Gates has paid doubles standing in for him as needed. And even if Bill Gates were arrested and flown to GITMO, his double(s) would continue to do harm. One would need a very professional group who'd be very well financed to do the work you and I are wishing would take place. Thinking of doubles, please notice that three, perhaps four, important political characters have changed their physical appearance, speech and emotional mannerisms. The three I'm thinking of are Russian President Putin, Hillary Rodham Clinton and California Governor Gavin Newsom. The fourth personality could be Anthony Fauci.

Putin & WEF as early as 2021: WEF Forum's sociopathic psychopath Klaus Schwab states, "Russia is an important global power & a long standing tradition of Russia's participation in the WEF. In this moment in history where the world has a unique & short window of opportunity to move from an age of confrontation to a world of corporation to hear the voice of the Russian president is essential." Putin & WEF as earlier as 2021 & as far back as 1992 as Putin states in video:

SarsCov2 has never been proven to exist as a novel virus by using science and a petri dish

If he truly didn't believe that Sars Cov 2 was a novel virus he could simply have objected however he didn't and neither has he taken the trouble to expose it for the hoax that it is.

You can grow bacteria in a petri dish, but I don't think that this has ever done with a virus. All we are shown by the media are computer generated models colorized for extra effect. I also think, but cannot prove, that viruses cannot actually be seen using the electron microscope. (When I was a research metallurgist I used an electron probe microscope at Birmingham University, but found the images very hard to interpret) However, the SARS-2 virus is real enough to cause debilitating symptoms and even death. In December 2021 I was hospitalized for two weeks with all the symptoms of Covid-19 even though I tested negative on the PCR test, which is in fact not an accredited diagnostic tool. It has taken me over a year to fully recover from its effects. There is no doubt in my mind that SARS-2 was created in a bioweapons laboratory.

That is true, Vandana Shiva tried to arrange a meeting with him, and he would not respond. She has apparently done this repeatedly to confront him about the Green Revolution in India that he touts as a success, he will hear nothing of it. He touts this as a success because he is invested in Monsanto Bayer, GMO, and chemical agriculture, he never has considered any other solution and does not care when confronted with the reality when there is verifiable proof of harm or failure. Even today there is a campaign to credit this program as a resounding success in spite of the Indian farmer protests and how it destroyed many small farmers and communities. I find this to be another example of how these people claim to be scientific but refuse to admit that something touted as a scientific success is proven to be flawed with no effort to make any changes and why we have the problems in agriculture that we do today.

As I understand it, according to Agenda 21, they plan to reduce the Human population by about 13/14 . Those left are planned to be cyborgs....part human and part machine created by nanobots. According to some researchers, nanobots are in the jabs and are directed to the brain where they collectively reassemble.. this plan includes long corridors with no Humans and large spaces where animals will live. Forests and all life will be genetically modified as those in charge desire to re-design nature as they become God.

They sure do seem to be working on this cyborging effort with nano technologies and aerosols and metals in the aerosols that can essentially penetrate our blood brain barriers and render us quite similar to robots in their control, if we keep using the smart phones, they will be used to do to us what these people have long fantasized about that the human being does not deserve to have a mind of their own, they must be controlled. Dr. Jose Delgado said, "“Man does not have the right to develop his own mind. This kind of liberal orientation has great appeal. We must electrically control the brain. Some day armies and generals will be controlled by electrical stimulation of the brain.”

It appears to me that there is some indoctrination happening at the college level that is thoroughly brainwashing our young people, who are too concerned with social media even into their late 30's to pay attention to anything real. They believe everything they are told and question nothing, and fully subscribe to the social justice nonsense, which is SO important to them while real issues that affect their lives and futures do not ever warrant their attention.

Nichole ↪ Michelle • 2 days ago

I remember taking critical thinking yet it is not done in a serious enough way that it is absorbed by all the faculty and the lectures they are giving. In fact, the lectures is how the indoctrination happens and the material that is selected in order to drive home the values that they are promoting. It is very sly in how they do it, it is how they get young women to support abortions, it is how they get people to hate their country and their race, it is done through lectures and in selecting certain material and then asking them to write papers from mostly one point of view but when they pretend to be non biased, I feel the student is kind of bullied into supporting the majority position, that is how it is done.
